London, Oct. 6.—British Minister Villiers at Lisbon, telegraphs the republican revolution is apparently accomplished and there will probably be no further violence.

King Manuel is not aboard a British warship; Villiers says, but he is assured the King is safe.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Milwaukee, Oct. 6.—Dr. W. C. Rucker will not return to Milwaukee as health commissioner. A letter from Surgeon General Weyman to Mayor Schilder, received today, says Rucker's resignation must stand as the United States public health and hospital service requires all competent men to deal with immigrants coming from Russia and Italy, where plague conditions exist.

La Crosse, Oct. 6.—Refusal of acting Mayor Joseph Houska today to interfere with the showing of the Joffre-Johnson fight pictures at a local theatre is expected to be followed by an effort to stop the films from being exhibited by an injunction or order this afternoon. A committee representing all the churches of the city was authorized to take whatever summary action was deemed necessary.

EDGERTON RESIDENT DIES VERY SUDDENLY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Edgerton, Oct. 6.—Charles Dunne, Sr., of Edgerton, was found dead in bed this morning by his son, Charles Dunne, chief of police in the city.
The probable cause of the death was reported to be cerebral hemorrhage.
The deceased was 69 years of age and had lived in Edgerton most of his life.
He leaves four children—two sons,
Charles of Edgerton, and John of Texas, and two daughters, Mrs. May Pen-ton of Texas, and Mrs. Nellie Dunne.
He was down town last evening and when found was fully dressed and a lighted lamp standing near his bed showed he passed away last night.

BROKE SMALL BONE IN HAND WHILE PRACTICING

During football practice Tuesday afternoon, Roy Edler, who plays left halfback on the local high school team, broke one of the metacarpal bones of his left hand. The seriousness of the injury was not realized
until the following day when the hand became swollen and painful. He went to a local physician who set the bone and put his hand in a cast. It will be three or four weeks before Edler can practice with the team, and as he is one of the best players his loss will be keenly felt.

LODGE AND DRAPER EXPECT HARD FIGHT IN MASSACHUSETTS

Republicans Named A Governor By
The Scarc Majority Of 8,000 At Last Election.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Boston, Mass., Oct. 6.—With the meeting of the State convention of both parties in Boston today the political campaign in Massachusetts begins in earnest. An entire State ticket, both branches of the legislature, representatives to Congress and numerous county officers are to be chosen this fall.
The legislature thus chosen will elect a United States senator to succeed
Henry Cabot Lodge, whose term expries next March.

The Democrats are entering upon
the campaign with higher hopes of success than they have entertained in many years. These hopes were reflected in the scruples for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination this
year, whereas only a year ago difficult
was experienced in finding a sufficiently popular candidate who was willing to head the ticket.

The Republicans are entering upon
the campaign with higher hopes of
success than they have entertained in
many years. These hopes were reflected in the scruples for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination this
year, whereas only a year ago difficult
was experienced in finding a sufficiently popular candidate who was willing to head the ticket.

Plans for a vigorous campaign have already been perfected by the Democratic. They intend to make the fight (both national and State lines). They will charge the dominant party, justly or not, with responsibility through the tariff of the high cost of living. On State issues they will allege extravagance, for which there is claimed to be at least surface foundation.

The Republicans, on the other hand,
must overcome some serious handicaps
if they win at the polls next month.
That they realize the gravity of the situation is evidenced by the statements made by Senator Lodge and Governor Draper, who in recent public addresses declared that the Republican ticket can win only with hard work.

The first fact that confronts the Republican management at the outset of the campaign is that last year they elected their governor by a scant majority of 8,000 votes. Governor Draper received 190,000 votes and the Democratic candidate James H. Valley, received 182,252. A glance at these figures shows that a very small loss in the Republican vote, arising from the disengagement of the voters with the tariff legislation or the re-estimation of the people over the high cost of living would inevitably result in Democratic victory. The personal popularity of Governor Draper, whom the Republicans today nominate for a third term, is another handicap that must be overcome. Governor Draper, despite the admirable business-like administration he has given, is not popular with the masses. He is anything but a "mixer" and is devoid of personal magnetism. Furthermore, he has the bitter opposition of the labor unions.

The Republican managers, however,
can see some traces of a silver lining
to the dark and ominous clouds looming upon the horizon. In the first place the party is able to present a united front. There is little or no evidence of organized insubordination in Massachusetts. So far as Congress goes the disengagement from this State bids fair to be unchallenged in political complexion. Nor is Senator Lodge believed to be in any great danger of losing his seat. The contest for the governorship is thought to be the only one in which the result is in doubt and over which the Republicans are undeniably much concerned. But by hard work, perfect organization and unrelenting effort along practical lines
they expect to overcome the untoward situation as regards the governorship,
and the best judgement of careful observers in the Republican ranks is that victory may be yet snatched from a situation that is far from promising.

A PRETTY WEDDING FOR PORTER PEOPLE

Elizabeth G. Greene Was United In Marriage to Curtis L. Jessup Yesterday Afternoon.

Edgerton, Oct. 6.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Green in the town of Porter was the scene of a happy gathering yesterday afternoon, Oct. 5. The occasion was the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth G., to Curtis L. Jessup. Promptly at the appointed hour, to the strains of Mendelssohn's beautiful "Wedding-Schmied," played by Miss Evolving Post, the bride and groom took their places under a bower of autumn leaves and white asters, where Rev. R. W. Roberts of the Edgerton Congregational church spoke the improvised words which made them man and wife. The bride was dressed in a gown of cream colored lawn and carried pink roses. Following the ceremony a delicious two-course luncheon was served to about sixty relatives and friends by the Misses Rita Hubbard, Ruth Post and Misses Harold Greene and Fred Sonnen. The bride has been one of Rock county's most successful teachers for several years while the groom is an energetic and competent young farmer who has taken an agricultural course at the State University in Madison. Both have hosts of friends who join in wishing them many years of happiness and prosperity in their united woes. After a short wedding trip to the Dells of Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Jessup will go at home to their many friends at the farm home of the groom's father, E. N. Jessup in Put-in-Bay.

KLEPTOMANIA IS ON THE INCREASE

Chief Appleby Recovered Large Quantity of Stolen Merchandise From Young Married Woman This Week.

For a long time the Janesville merchants and the police department have had to contend with a species of kleptomania or plain shop-lifting which seems to persist in spite of repeated detection and threats of punishment.

About a year ago Chief Appleby visited an elderly lady and requested her to go to a certain store and settle for some goods she had taken. A few months ago he recovered a stolen gold watch from a certain young married woman and her pleading in behalf of an infant child forestalled exposure and disgrace. Day before yesterday the Chief, armed with a search warrant and accompanied by a Janesville merchant, visited the home of a young married woman and recovered table cloths, doilies, pocket books, towels, ladies' waistlets, a solid gold ring, and quite a number of other articles, from which they had been taken. On account of family connections the woman was not tried or put in jail but the Chief says that he is convinced that the only way to stop this petty thievery is to arrest and bring into court the guilty parties, regardless of whom they are and what they are supposed to be, and from this on such will be the policy of the department.

"The Girl in the Kimono."

While the majority of theatregoers are more or less skeptical regarding the announcement of a new play, they are inclined to realize the true merit of a play when it comes direct from a successful engagement in a metropolitan city as "The Girl in the Kimono" does, which will be a noteworthy offering at the Myers theatre, Monday, times, "Il Trovatore," and in so doing has struck a responsive chord in public favor.

To those who have heard "Il Trovatore" the opportunity of hearing the great tenor solo, "Di Quella Pira," sung by the greatest of American tenors, or hearing the stirring "Arietta" "horna" by a company of selected voices, or hearing the world renowned

"Miserere" in the lower scene, and a score of other famous numbers will be a welcome treat. To those who have never heard this great opera it will prove a most happy surprise.

No better proof of the hold "Il Trovatore" has on the public can be given than the fact that those who have heard it once never lose an opportunity of doing so again and again. And to this the fact that probably never before has it been sung in English by such a famous organization of stars, and nothing remains to be said.

Mr. Sheehan has selected from his various companies the principals best fitted for the different roles and thereby truly making an all star production.

"The Flaming Arrow."

"The Flaming Arrow," a western play by the popular author, Lincoln J. Carter, depicting life as it really was in the vicinity of Ft. Verde in the pioneer days. The story is unconventional and natural, the part of "White Eagle" the educated Indian, is a fine character drawing, and "The White Lily," the daughter of Col. Fremont is lovable and human. It is one of the best plays ever written by Mr. Carter and abounds in unusual dramatic situations and lively climaxes. The themes and situations are original and rich subjects for metro-dramatic compilations. This attraction will be staged at the Myers theatre, Saturday Oct. 8, matinee and evening, with the complete electrical and scenic effects.

"Il Trovatore."

Joseph E. Sheehan, America's greatest tenor and idol of every music lover in the country, is coming to the Myers theatre, Tuesday, Oct. 11, with his all star company, for one performance of Verdi's "Il Trovatore." Joseph Sheehan needs no introduction. He is universally acknowledged as the best tenor in the world.

DIETZ THE LAW-BREAKER.

While it is to be regretted that a daughter of Dietz is a victim to the law which her father violated, the incident is no occasion for the sentiment which expresses sympathy for the law-breaker.

Dietz has been a prominent character in Wisconsin for a number of years and his record is far from enviable. Long under indictment, he not only refused to be served with a warrant, but defied authority and became an outlaw.

Warrants were also out for members of his family who had assisted him in defying the law, and when they refused to halt on command of the officers, they assumed the role of law-breakers and suffered the natural results.

Dietz may have some rights, but he has long defied the courts which are established for the benefit and protection of all citizens by attempting to take the law into his own hands. If his methods should be generally adopted the commonwealth would soon be given over to a reign of terror and anarchy.

Governor Davidson sits right in the attitude he assumes. If the state is to take any part it must be on the side of law and order. This, every law-respecting citizen will recognize.

The sheriff of Sawyer county is an officer of the law, sworn to perform his duty as the law provides. In the performance of duty he is authorized to call to his aid as deputies as many citizens as the case demands, and then if unable to cope with the situation, to invoke state aid.

In this last resort the governor becomes the chief executive, and it frequently happens that state troops are ordered out to support local authorities.

This is the position in which Governor Davidson is placed, and if compelled to take a hand it will not be in defense of the outlaw, but in support of the man who is attempting to capture him.

There is more at stake than the life of a man who defies authority, for the principles of government are involved. Dietz has played his last card as a law-breaker. He will be taken alive, if possible, and given a fair hearing in the court which he has defied.

By becoming a law unto himself he has sacrificed all claim to protection and it remains for him now to peace.

fully surrender, or suffer the consequences.

CORPORATION LAWYERS.
It has long been a popular notion that lawyers who rise to any degree of prominence are "corporation lawyers," and therefore corrupt. The Hon. John C. Spooner, who served Wisconsin so long and so faithfully in the United States Senate, belonged to this unenvy class, and was constantly accused of corporation sympathy. The fact is ignored that all large corporations find it necessary to employ the best legal talent that can be secured, not for the purpose of evading the law, but to protect the rights of property for which they are responsible. The Wall Street Journal thus intelligently discusses the question:

"Even after the exhibition of depravity revealed in our editorial of October 4, in which we ventured to contend that a man might contribute to a party campaign fund and yet remain honest, disinterested, even patriotic, in spite of the fact of his earning a living in Wall Street we dare to go further."

"We may never be able to live this down, but our recklessness urges us on to the declaration that a 'corporation lawyer' is not thereby disqualified from holding office, and may even be an 'honorable' and self-respecting American."

"We are aware that this view is not widely held. Any lawyer who can be shown at any time to have accepted a bribe or a retainer from any corporation, of whatever kind, may be denounced, in newspapers of a well-known class, as a 'tool of the trusts,' thereby rendered incompetent to exercise anything beyond his inalienable rights; and even in those it becomes the duty of the newspaper to advise to make his pursuit of happiness as difficult as possible."

"There is a kind of corporation lawyer who accepts a salary from a single corporation and attends exclusively to one branch of his legal business. Of course, he is even more deeply dyed than the man who, in a moment of weakness, has merely accepted a corporation's fee. That might be forgiven him if he swore off, say on the ensuing New Year's day. But the other is not merely a 'tool of the trusts'; he is a 'hireling.' It may be his business, for instance, to pass on the validity of real estate titles for some company which 'deals' in mortgages and title guarantees, and cannot by any stretch of the imagination be described as a 'trust.' It makes no difference. The old question-begging epithet is still freely applied. He is a corporation lawyer, and therefore disqualified for the service of his country."

"Now that we have taken this revolutionary step, in defiance of the plainest public opinion, we will go so far as to say that there is not a lawyer in the United States worth his salt who does not come under the definition of a corporation lawyer. We have far too many lawyers, especially in our legislatures, and these curiously enough, use the epithet oftenest."

"It might be humanely suggested that when a lawyer takes his birth from a law school he should be carefully examined with the rest of his graduating class, like a litter of puppies, and of those failing to come up to an easily settled standard should be forthwith drowned in other professions."

"We realize the gravity of these utterances. They strip up the last shreds of decency. We stand exposed at last, without a claim to popular consideration or respect and with nothing to fall back upon but that obnoxious instrument, the Constitution of the United States."

A MATTER OF SENSE.

"Ordinary" business soon exists in the people of the United States, and that is the reason why they are rapidly deciding in favor of commission government in their cities. It was chance that led Galveston to take the step, and it was because it worked so well that other cities followed. The old game of having cities governed for the sake of furnishing sustenance to professional politicians and their hangers-on is about played out. On October 11 the city of Lynn, in Massachusetts, votes upon this question.

"There are reasons aplenty. But why should mother come in last of all? Just because she is mother? That's it. Certainly it is not because mother has got to the place where she cares no more for pretty things. It is simply because mother's greatest pleasure is to do for others."

"And the others forget. They let mother slave and sacrifice and wear old clothes because she is willing."

"But think, girls and boys, what selfishness you display. The fact is, you have grown so used to mother's unselfish ways that you take all she does for you as matter of course. Should she neglect your welfare in some slight particular you would deem it a gross forgetfulness of her duty. And such a lapse would be strange—in mother."

"But where does that put you, who selfishly enjoy her loving service and constant vigil? If she ministers to selfish children who practically ignore her service, where does that put you?"

"And it may be more than lack of appreciation in your case. It may be that sort of good natured tolerance which says, 'Oh, well, you mean well, mother, but really, now, you are old fashioned and foolish."

"Don't you know that hurt?"

"Or you may be actually ashamed in company of the plain mother who has deprived herself for you—the more shame to her child. Besides the unspeakable cruelty of it, such conduct is the meanest robbery any mortal can be guilty of."

"Children of your mother, let me suggest: Each of you save up enough money, father included, and buy mother a new dress."

"Watch the flush in her cheek, the joy in her eyes shining through the tears. And of course she will say,

"Why, you shouldn't have spent that money on me."—that to her dying day, oftentimes when weary and worn and she will remember that dress and smile and cry."

Here is a dispatch found in a Milwaukee paper yesterday:

Tony, Wis., Oct. 4.—(Special).—Farmers in this neighborhood are reclining in the beautiful moonlit nights. The moon has risen at about the same time each night and the heavens have been unusually illuminated. Old settlers, however, have given warning that this is a phenomenon especially designed as a warning of a long and hard winter and that it is a suggestion to husbandmen to gather their harvest and make everything sure for the cold days to come." If the moon continues to rise at "about the same time each night" in Tony, for an indefinite period, it will indicate that nature has slipped a cog somewhere.

BUY HER A NEW DRESS.

It has been a long time since mother had a new dress. She is content to have her old ones "mend over" again and again.

Why?

Because the girls must have new hats and gowns, and the boys always need new shirts and shoes, and so many repairs must be made about the house, and father must go decent to business, and—

There are reasons aplenty.

But why should mother come in last of all? Just because she is mother?

That's it. Certainly it is not because mother has got to the place where she cares no more for pretty things. It is simply because mother's greatest pleasure is to do for others.

And the others forget. They let mother slave and sacrifice and wear old clothes because she is willing.

But think, girls and boys, what selfishness you display. The fact is, you have grown so used to mother's unselfish ways that you take all she does for you as matter of course. Should she neglect your welfare in some slight particular you would deem it a gross forgetfulness of her duty. And such a lapse would be strange—in mother.

Don't you know that hurt?

Or you may be actually ashamed in company of the plain mother who has deprived herself for you—the more shame to her child. Besides the unspeakable cruelty of it, such conduct is the meanest robbery any mortal can be guilty of.

Children of your mother, let me suggest: Each of you save up enough money, father included, and buy mother a new dress.

Watch the flush in her cheek, the joy in her eyes shining through the tears. And of course she will say,

"Why, you shouldn't have spent that money on me."—that to her dying day, oftentimes when weary and worn and she will remember that dress and smile and cry.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Married Yesterday: Roy Chester
Lawrence and Ida Ruth Mawhinney were united in marriage by Dr. Laughlin yesterday afternoon at five o'clock at the parsonage.

Lecture this evening: Dr. J. W.
Laughlin will deliver a lecture this evening at the Presbyterian church in the series, "Current Events from a Religious Standpoint." The subject for this evening's lecture will be "The Death of John Converse, President of the Ballyhoo Locomotive Works."

Prairie Dogs Here: Poormaster Asa Anderson complains that some wild animal akin to a "pocket-gopher"
of prairie dog has been tunneling
under his cornfield and storing away
several bushels of corn and potatoes.

Show Manager Here: Rod Waggoner, press representative of Henry Woodruff, who will come to the Myers
in his new song comedy, "The Gents,"
the last of next week, was in town today arranging for that well known star's appearance. Mr. Woodruff was seen here last season in "The Prince of Tonight," and left an excellent impression. Mr. Waggoner has not been in the city since he was here with Father Vaughan's play, "A Woman of the West."

It Cost Atkinson $205: John P. Atkinson, a candidate for the nomination for register of deeds, has filed a statement showing $205.61 election expenses. Most of the money was spent for printing and advertising.

ARREST OF CAR CREWS

ILLINOIS TRACTION MOTORMAN
ADmits HIS RESPONSIBILITY FOR TERRIBLE WRECK.

DEATH TOLL REACHES 37

All But Two of Victims Are Identified
—General Manager Chubbuck
Gives Out Statement Showing Orders Were Without Flaw.

Staunton, Ill., Oct. 6.—With but two exceptions all of those killed in the terrible wreck on the Illinois Traction system near here have been identified.

The complete list of dead numbers 37. From the unidentified bodies friends have picked out the following:

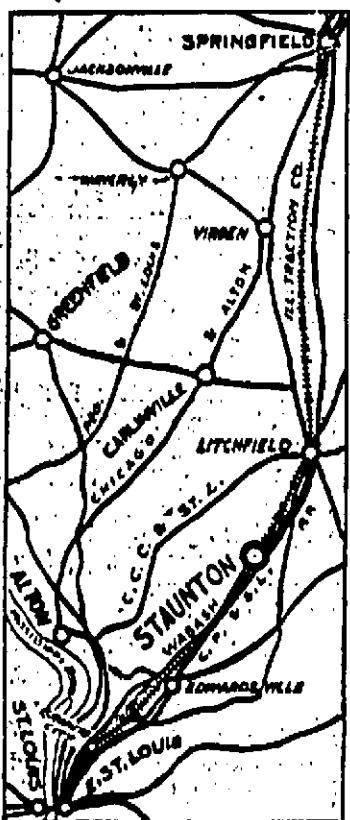

Mrs. F. T. Henry of Monaca, Ill.; Jacob B. Bruegg, St. Louis; Mrs. F. C. Hill, Belleville; Mrs. S. L. Dunton of St. Louis; Mrs. H. Robinson of Bond; Miss Ella Sawyer of Belleville; Mrs. Dr. Redshaw of Curran, near Springfield.

Confesses He Caused Wreck.

Responsibility for the wreck has been fixed definitely and clearly and further investigation is not deemed necessary.

"Motorman John Lierman of the northbound car admits he alone is responsible for the wreck," said H. E. K.

SECTION OF ILLINOIS SHOWING STAUNTON.

Staunton, Ill., the nearest town to the scene of the wreck, is a town of 4,000 people. It is on the Litchfield & Madison and the Wabash railroads, as well as on the Illinois Traction lines running south of Springfield.

Chubbuck, vice-president and general manager of the Illinois Traction system.

Lierman was noted for his careful work, and there seems to be no reason for his fatal absent-mindedness in overrunning a meeting point at Wall's siding.

"Both train orders are absolutely clear to the minute detail, showing the dispatching to be flawless. As far as I can find out, Lierman had no trouble on his mind."

"Motorman Lierman and Conductor Leonard are responsible for the collision," said C. F. Handley, general superintendent of the system. "They received orders to meet the second section of No. 25 at Wall's siding. They failed to obey orders."

Arrest Motorman and Conductor.

Motorman Lierman and Conductor Leonard, in charge of train No. 10, were arrested and taken to Carlinville for the coroner's inquest. Deputy Sheriff Valentine and Policeman Stiff found each man at his home. Lierman was in a little sitting room with his wife and children; all were crying piteously.

"For God's sake, how many were killed?" said the motorman, addressing the deputy sheriff.

Conductor Leonard, as well as Lierman, was in a pitiful state of mind.

Tells Banker of "Mistake."

Soon after the collision Lierman telephoned the dispatcher at this place of the wreck. Then he came to Staunton, changed his clothes in his locker room and, according to the cashier of a bank, drew out his money and disappeared. He told the cashier he had made a mistake. It was several hours afterward when Lierman was found.

HIBERNIANS ENJOYED A SOCIAL DANCE LAST NIGHT

A full-gated and jolly crowd, composed of members of the A. O. H. and a few of their friends enjoyed a social dance last evening. MRS. C. S. DECKER DIED ON WEDNESDAY

Resident of Janesville for Many Years
Died at Daughter's Home
in Iowa.

Word received from Sioux City, Iowa, announced the death there on yesterday morning of Mrs. C. S. Decker, for many years a resident of Janesville, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. David Mould. Mrs. Decker was born in Orange county, New York, May 19, 1822, and for forty-five years had made her home in Rock county. Besides the daughters, three sons, Frank of Roy, Wyo., T. C. Decker of Holton, and J. A. Decker of this city, survive. She was for many years a member and faithful worker in the Presbyterian church. The remains will arrive here tomorrow morning at ten o'clock over the St. Paul road and will be taken direct to Oak Hill chapel. Rev. W. T. Brown of Holton will conduct the services.

OBITUARY

Mrs. John Neumann. Services over the remains of Mrs. John Neumann, mother of Mrs. Wm. Bahr of this city, were held from St. Mary's church at Oshkosh, Wis., Saturday morning at nine o'clock. Besides Mrs. Bahr, those who remain to mourn her loss are a husband and two children, Hattie and Edward, a father, stepmother, and two brothers, Frank Eichenschmidt of Oshkosh, George Eichenschmidt of Auburn, N. Y., also three half-sisters, Mamie, Clara, and Millie, all of Oshkosh.

George Sykes.

Like a sheaf of corn fully ripe and ready for the harvest, death came to the relief of George Sykes in his home. A prospectus had been sent and gathered the immortal spirit to the home beyond.

Mr. Sykes was born in 1828. He came to Janesville among the pioneers in 1855 and located on a farm where he resided until some 20 years ago when he moved into the city, which has since been his home.

Unswerving in manner, but passing a character beyond reproach, he won the love and confidence of all who knew him, and his devotion to the church was second only to the love for his home.

He was a Methodist, of the old school and always ready to defend the faith which was "in him" and which was so intensely real that it held him steadily in the emergence of life.

He belonged to the old guard, which so rapidly disappears, and while in feeble health, was able to be on the streets until a week ago, when a stroke of paralysis confined him to his bed. Death came at the end without a struggle and he peacefully passed away.

Mr. Sykes had many friends among the old folks with whom he had associated for many years.

The wife and four children survive: Emma of Janesville, H. G. of Harmony, Dr. H. D. of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Mamie Sykes of Walla Walla, Washington.

Funeral services will be held at the residence, 915 Prospect Avenue, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Oct. 8, and the remains will rest at Oak Hill.

Charles C. Carr.

Friends and relatives in large numbers congregate at the home of the late Charles C. Carr, 829 Milwaukee Avenue at two o'clock this afternoon to pay their last tributes of respect to his memory. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. T. D. Williams. Many floral offerings covered the casket of the deceased. The remains were laid at rest in Oak Hill cemetery. The pallbearers: Frank Wheeler, a brother of Mrs. Carr, Dr. Ray Rice, Dr. Fay Rice, and Delbert Rice, nephews of Mrs. Carr.

Mrs. Sallida Pratt.

Rev. J. C. Hazen will officiate at the funeral of Mrs. Sallida B. Pratt, which will be held from the late residence, 421 North Jackson street, at half past ten o'clock Friday morning. Funeral will be private.

CHIEF JUSTICE SWAYZE OF THE NEW JERSEY SUPREME COURT.

May be appointed to United States Supreme Court.

Washington, D. C.—It is well known that among other important subjects considered at the first cabinet meeting after the summer vacation was the filling of the vacancies in the United States Supreme Court.

President Taft will make his supreme court appointments soon. Death has left the supreme court dockets in bad shape. The calendar for October term, which opens October 10, is heavy, carrying one hundred more cases than at the last October term. The important Government cases—Standard Oil, Tobacco Trust, Corporation Tax—had been set for early arguments. They will have to go over. Solleto General Lloyd W. Bowers, who died recently, had prepared briefs in twenty-three cases set for Tuesday, Oct. 11.

These would have been continued before the court until disposed of, but most of them will have now to be set aside until a new solicitor general or other department of justice officials can prepare for them.

The death of Chief Justice Fuller

and the voluntary retirement of Associate Justice Moody leaves two vacancies in the highest court to be filled, one the chief justiceship, which carries with it higher duties than the position of associate justiceship.

Chief Justice Swayze was considered by President Taft for appointment to the supreme court before Governor Charles E. Hughes of New York had decided to accept the offer of the appointment, and when it was believed here that Hughes contemplated declining the appointment.

At that time it was stated that Justice Swayze was the President's second choice for the supreme court. It is known here, that the President has not since then had reason to change his opinion regarding the availability of Justice Swayze or the eminent fitness of the New Jersey jurist for the appointment.

Famous "Pint of Cough Syrup" Recipe

No Better Remedy at any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing one pint of granulated sugar and ½ pint of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pineox (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequalled remedy for whooping cough.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pineox and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, though never successfully, if you try it, use only genuine Pineox, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in galactin and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pineox or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pineox Co., P. O. Wayne, Ind.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

THE PROBLEM of how to go away to the country to recuperate and yet stay at home to save your purse, was recently solved by two young friends of mine in a rather interesting and suggestive way.

The young folks are a doctor and his wife. His wife was run-down and needed country air. But the doctor's purse was also run-down.

It was one of the hardest cases he ever ran up against. But he rose to its level with an ingenuity that ought to bring him as many patients as he can take care of.

"Although they live in the heart of the town, there is a section of high, wooded land about two miles from them. It is a very beautiful spot and people continually remark on the purity and freshness of the air on this little pine-studded hill.

Mindful of this fact, the doctor has driven his wife out there every morning before he went on his rounds all summer long.

He establishes her comfortably with book or sewing, a heap of pillows and a lunch, and then goes back to his work. Late in the afternoon he goes out and brings her home.

Thus it really done her much good?

Well, I just wish I could publish a before-and-after picture of her.

Why not that good idea of anyone whose purse and health are simultaneously out of gear?

Of course, not everyone has a carriage or just such an ideal spot, but I don't believe there are many people who couldn't manage to get themselves daily transported to some healthy spot, at a fairly reasonable rate, if they really made the effort.

Some weeks ago I wrote a little talk on the golden rule of lost articles. That is, the duty of everyone who finds any valuable article to do his best to get it back to its owner, just as he would like the person who finds his article to do for him.

I commented at the time on the lack of any system for dealing with lost articles in this country, and a traveler sends me this interesting item: "Some time ago I lost a handbag and a few articles therein, in a London stage. Next morning I went to Scotland Yards, gave a description of my loss and in half a minute the bag and contents were before me. I paid ten per cent of the value, about 85 cents, of which 12 cents the police put into their orphan fund and the balance goes to the finder. Why not have the same system here?"

Why not, indeed? Isn't this a bit of constructive reform that your woman's club might well work to get introduced in this city?

Want to know how a few bits of colored paper and a few inches of wooden stick can sometimes take the place, and set free the time, of a human being? In amusing a baby.

Buy or make one of those little colored paper windmills. Stick it up in baby's carriage when you put him out of doors and you will be surprised how long he will be contented to watch its revolutions in the breezes, instead of demanding that you amuse him.

DRUGS VS. FOOD.

The medical practice of the future, or rather the practice of healing, will be largely the practice of food prescription. Dr. Wiley of the Bureau of Agriculture is reported as saying:

"There is nothing in drugs which is not in food, the only material difference being that drugs are more virulent, quicker in action, but often unfortunately, o." Mineral drugs can serve only as irritants; those derived from the vegetable kingdom are milder in action, less injurious. Strictly speaking, there is no dividing line between drugs and food, but it may be said that foods are the natural material remedies, nature's alimentaria. Longer time is required for results from food, but nature's process of cure is slow. Physiotherapy, rapidly becoming popular, and materia alimentaria will undoubtedly be the chief therapeutic agencies of the future, and by normal exercise and otherwise complying with the laws of health, surgical operations would be confined almost entirely to emergencies.

MEDICINES MADE FROM ROOTS AND HERBS.

After being blind for 11 years, Mr. Robert Holland of Stockburn, Northumberland, England, has suddenly recovered his sight. He had been medically treated, but the doctors had given up all hope. Whilst walking with his wife he found he could see dimly, and on returning home discovered that his sight had been restored. He is 82 years of age.

Lydia E. Philmont's Vegetable Compound, that standard remedy which is made from roots and herbs for women's ills, has its origin in this way. For thirty years it has been advertising its promises written on the label of every bottle by curling thousands of women of failing ills. It's good honest medicine.

BREAKS TWO-YEAR-OLD RECORD.
Justice Broke Trot. Mile in 2:09 1/2 at Lexington, Ky.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 6.—The two-year-old Kentucky Futurity, valued at $5,000, was the feature of the annual fall meeting of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' association.

Miss Stokes, who last year as a yearling electrified the trotting world by lowering the world's record for a yearling, was favorite in the betting,
but was taken sick before the race
and had to be drawn out. Justice Broke won, setting a new world's record for two-year-old colts. Time, 2:11 1/2 and 2:09 1/2. Main Sheet, got second money and, Silent Britches and Pater, boy, divided third and fourth money.

Health Officers Issue Reassuring
Statements at New York.

New York, Oct. 6.—The flurry of uneasiness over the possibility of the entrance of cholera at this port has abated.

There were reassuring statements
from both state and federal health officers and the 616 cabin passengers who had been detained at quarantine
since Monday night aboard the steamship Sant Anna and Molka from Italian ports, were released.

The vessels still are held, however,
and the 1,000 passengers of both vessels in all, probably will be transferred to Hoffman Island for observation.

German Honor Famous Preacher of American Revolutionary Days.

Philadelphia, Oct. 6.—The celebration of German Day was made notable today by the unveiling of a statue of Peter Muhlenberg, the famous preacher who left his pulpit to become an officer in the American army during the revolution. The monument was erected by the German Society of Pennsylvania, and is placed temporarily on the city hall plaza until a permanent site is selected on the parkway. The mayor accepted it on behalf of the city.

NEW STORY PROMISES TO BE INTERESTING

The Fortune Hunter's Opening Chapters Will be Found in the Gazette
today.

What does not want to know how Nut Duncan, the future in business, the man brought up by a doting father to do nothing and left penniless on his death, finally succeeded. The Fortune Hunter which begins today in the columns of the Gazette, is the story taken from the play of the same name in which John Barrymore has played for two years. Nut Duncan is a character and the Gazette readers will travel with him through life's search for a wife and fortune combined with interest. Of course he finally—will that would be telling the real end of the tale so wait and read it. The opening chapters start today.

SEVERELY INJURED

Fell and Fractured Right Forearm in Attempting to Alight from an Interurban Car.

In attempting to alight from an interurban car at the corner of Franklin and Pleasant streets Sunday evening, Mrs. Thomas Griffin was pitched headlong into the roadway and sustained a compound fracture of her right forearm, broken about the body, and, it is feared, serious internal injuries. Whether the car started up suddenly after coming to a halt or whether she tried to alight while it was in motion is not known. Her condition is said to be quite serious and an X-ray examination will be made to determine the nature of the internal injuries. If there are any, and whether or not there are any other fractured bones.

His Grizzly Heels.
Uncle Jerry Peebles was about to start on a week's visit to the country
says the Chicago Tribune. "Have you got everything?" asked Aunt Ann Peebles. He looked hastily through his valise. "No, by George!" he exclaimed. "I've forgot my sheet of sandpaper." "What does he want of that?" inquired Nephew Bill. "The old gentleman went to hunt it up. He has to sandpaper his heels every other morning," explained Aunt Ann, "to keep from wearing holes through his socks."

START GREAT "UPLIFT" MOVE.

Commercial Executives Open Fifth

Annual Session at Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 6.—What is declared to be the inception of a great "uplift" movement in relation to commercialism and the welfare of municipalities marks the fifth annual convention of the National Association of Commercial Executives which opened in the board of trade auditorium

here today. Some two hundred delegates were present, representing chambers of commerce, civic associations, industrial and manufacturers'

associations and similar organizations from points as widely separated as

Honolulu, Porto Rico, San Antonio,

Lethbridge, Alberta, Port Arthur, Ont.,

and Portland, Me. Woodworth Clun

of Rochester, N. Y., presided and responded to an address of welcome by Heber A. Knott, president of the local board of trade.

Several addresses and papers were heard at the morning and afternoon sessions, the keynote of most of the remarks being "It pays to be good"

and to promote the ideal city, safe,

healthful, beautiful and well governed,

for that gets the most and the best of legitimate business. Tonight foreign trade will be discussed. Senator William Alden Smith will preside, and among the speakers will be John Burrett, director of the Pan-American union. The convention closes tonight with a banquet at the Hotel Paulili.

THE FORTUNE HUNTER

Novelized by
LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE
From the Play of the Same Name by
WINCHELL SMITH

Copyright, 1910, by Winchell Smith and
Louis Joseph Vance

In one of Rudyard Kipling's writings he tells of: "the ship that found herself," and in "The Fortune Hunter" we have the fascinating narrative of "a youth who found himself." The youth is like the ship—he had to have his course laid straight before his career began to make substantial headway. The story of Nat Duncan is one, that in dramatic form, as written by Winchell Smith, has attracted the attention of thousands of playgoers throughout the country. As a novel, written by Louis Joseph Vance, it becomes a narrative of profound appeal to the young and old and especially to those of us who in our youth dwell in a rural district far enough removed from the metropolitan centers to be practically a world in itself and to itself. Usually it is the country lad who ventures into the great cities to seek fortune and fame's favor. But here we find a down-to-date city youth, who, a failure at everything he had undertaken, invades the rural districts to make a millionaire of himself. That which befalls him prompted a great New York newspaper editor to say, "Every American should read this great story," for "The Fortune Hunter," in spite of its enjoyable humor, subtly pointed out by its talented authors, teaches the vital lesson of the need of charity and tolerance for the less fortunate of human beings.

RECHERCHÉ

RECHERCHÉ et. al. v. Spaulding, of Moses, Atwater & Spaulding, importers of motor clothing, garments and accessories, litigated in the switchboard operator's apartment with grave attention, acknowledging it with a tongue "All right," said "him," "Then, hooking up the desk telephone, he swung round in his chair to face the door of his private office and in a brief ensuing interval painstakingly fanned out of his face and attitude every indication of the frame of mind in which he awaited his caller. It was, as a matter of fact, anything but a pleasant one. He had a distasteful duty to perform, but that was the last thing he designed to become evident. Like most good business men, he nursed a pet superstition or "two," and of the number of these the first was that he must in all his dealings present an invincible front, like a poker player's. Captain of industry were uniformly like that, Spaulding understood. If they entered emotions it was strictly in private.

Occasionally this attitude deceived others. Notably now it bewildered Duncan as he entered on the echo of Spaulding's "Come." He had approached the usage of a thunderstorm with a rattle of brusque complaints. He encountered Spaulding as he had always seemed—little, urban figure with a blank face, the blinder for glasses whose lenses seemed always to catch the light and, glaring mock the eyes behind them; a prosperous man of affairs, well grommed both as to body and as to mind; a machine for the transaction of business with all a machine's celerity and temperamental responsiveness. It was just that quality in him that Duncan envied, who was vaguely impressed that he himself could initiate, however minutely, the plights of a machine he might learn to ape skilfully of its efficiency and so ultimately prove himself of some worth to the world and incidentally to Nathaniel Duncan.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Spaulding," he said, replying to his nod as he dropped into the chair that had had indicated, A faint smile lightened his expression and made it quite engaging.

"Good afternoon," Spaulding surveyed him swiftly, then beat his fat little fingers and contemplated them with detached interest. "Just get in, Duncan."

"On the 2:30 from Chicago, I got your wire," he resumed. "I mean it, you never took me at Minneapolis."

"You haven't wasted time."

CHAPTER XXII.

FOR nearly an hour Boyd Emerson sat alone on the deck of the Grande Dame, a prey to conflicting emotions, while he waited for Mildred to appear. There was no one to dispute his presence, now, for the tourists who had followed Dr. Berry from the shore in flushed excitement avoided him, and the sailors made no effort to carry out their earlier instructions; hence he was allowed opportunity to adjust himself to the sudden change. It was not so much the unexpected downfall of Willis Marsh and the new light thus thrown upon his own enterprise that upset him as a puzzling alteration in his own purposes and inclinations. He had come out to the yacht definitely to make good his threat and to force an understanding with Mildred Wayland, but now that he was here and his way made easy he began to question his own desires. Now that he thought about it that note, instead of filling him with dismay, had rather left him relieved. It was as if he had been freed of a burden, and this caused him vague uneasiness. Was it because he was tired by the struggle for this girl for whom he had labored so faithfully? After three years of unflagging devotion was he truly relieved to have her dismiss him? Or was it that here in this primal country, stripped of all conventions, he saw her and himself in a new light? He did not know.

The late twilight was fading when Mildred came from her stateroom, Boyd pacing the deck, a cigar between his teeth.

"Where are those people?" she inquired.

"They went ashore. Marsh doesn't care to press a charge against the Indian."

"I hear he is not badly hurt, after all."

"That is true. But it was a close shave."

Mildred shuddered. "It was horrible!"

"I never dreamed that Constantine would do such a thing, but he is more vicious than Abut, and both he and his slaves are completely under the spell of the priest. They are intensely religious, and their idea of damnation is very strict."

"Have you seen father?"

"We had a short talk."

"Did you make up?"

"No. But I think he is beginning to understand things better—at least, as far as Marsh is concerned. The rest is only a matter of time."

"What a frightful situation! Why did you ever let father announce my engagement to that man?"

Emerson gazed at her in astonishment. "I Pardon me! How could I help it?"

"You might have avoided quarreling with him, I think you are very inconsiderate of me."

Boyd regarded the coat of his cigar with a slight gleam of amusement in his eyes as she ran out.

"Even that woman took occasion to humiliate me in the worst possible way."

"It strikes me that she did you a very great service. I have no doubt it was quite as distasteful to her as to you."

"I thought you knew that; I thought that was why you called me in with my route half-covered."

"You mean?"

"You only know, I want to badly enough. It's just general incompetence, I presume."

"What makes you think that?"

Duncan smiled blithely. "Experience," he said.

"You've tried—what else?"

"A little of everything, all the jobs open to a man with a knowledge of Latin and Greek and the higher mathematics—slipping clerk, timekeeper, cashier, all of 'em."

"And yet Kellogg believes in you."

Duncan nodded dolefully. "Harry's a good friend. We roomed together at college. That's why he stands for me."

"He says you only need the right opening."

And nobody knows where that is, except my fortunate employer. It's the back door going out for me every time. Oh, Harry's been a prince to me! He's found me four or five jobs with friends of his, like yourself. But I don't seem to last. You see, I was brought up to be ornamental and irregular rather than useful, to blow about in motorcars and keep a violet bushy home. I'm afraid, I think—yes, I shall have further ask you to go back with us."

"But I am right in the midst of the run. I can't leave the business."

the time was at its noon, and the hour of their departure was at hand.

There were a meaningless exchange of words and a handshaking in the gloom from the cabin light that showed Mildred's pallid lips and frightened eyes. Then Emerson went over the side, and the darkness swallowed him up.

The girl clutched at her father's arm, standing as if frozen while the creek of rowlocks grew fainter and fainter and died away. Then she turned.

"You see, he came!" she said.

The old man saw the agony that blanched her cheeks and answered gently:

"Yes, daughter! He struggled with himself. "And if you wish it he may come again."

"But he won't come again. That is what makes it so hard; he will never come back."

She turned away, but not quickly enough to keep him from seeing that her eyes were wet. Wayne Wayland beheld what he would have given half his mighty fortune to prevent. He cried out angrily, but she anticipated his thought.

"No, no, you must never injure him again, for he was right and we were wrong. You see I couldn't understand."

He left her staring into the night and walked heavily below.

Emerson felt a great sense of relief and deliverance as he leaned against his oars. His heart sang to the murmur of the waters overide. For the first time in many months he felt young and free. How blind he had been and how narrow had been his escape from a life that could lead to but one result! The girl was sweet and good and wonderful—in many ways, but three years had altered him more than he had realized. He had begun to understand himself that very afternoon when Cherry had told him her own unhappy secret. The shock of her disclosure had roused him from his dream, and once he began to see himself as he really was the rest had come quickly. He had been doubtful even when he went out to the yacht, but what happened there had destroyed the last trace of uncertainty. He knew that for him there was but one woman in the world. It was no easy battle he had fought with himself. He had been reared to respect the conventions, and he knew that Cherry's life had not been all he could wish. But he fronted the issue squarely and tried to throttle his inborn prejudices. Although he had felt the truth of Prosecutor's arguments and of Cherry's own words, he had still refused to yield until his love for the girl swept over him in all its power; then he made his choice. (To be Continued.)

JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 5.
Providing an amendment to section 3 of article IV of the Constitution of the state of Wisconsin, relating to apportionment.

Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1907, an amendment to the Constitution of this state was proposed and rejected by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment was in the following language:

"Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring, That section 3 of article IV of the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin be amended to read as follows:

"Section 3. At their first session after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the Legislature shall apportion and distribute among the members of the Senate and Assembly, according to the number of inhabitants, excluding Indians not taxed, soldiers, and officers of the United States Army and Navy."

Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin be and the same is agreed to by this legislature.

(NO. 35, A.)

JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 7.
To amend section 21 of article IV of the constitution, relating to the compensation of members of the legislature.

Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1907 an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That section 21 of article IV of the constitution be amended by striking out the word "two" before the word "ten" so that the same when amended shall read as follows:

Section 21. Each member of the legislature shall receive for his services for and during a regular session the sum of ten hundred dollars, and ten cents for every mile he shall travel in going to and returning from the place of meeting of the legislature, no additional compensation shall be allowed to any member thereof, either directly or indirectly, except for mileage to be computed at the same rate as for a regular session. No stationary, newspapers, postage or other perquisites, except the salary and mileage above, provided shall be received from the state by any member of the legislature for his services or in any other manner in such member; now therefore,

Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Wisconsin be and the same is agreed to by this legislature.

(NO. 35, A.)

JOINT RESOLUTION.
To amend section 10 of article VIII of the Constitution, relating to internal improvements.

Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1907, an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, that section 10 of article VIII of the constitution be amended by adding at the end of said section the following: "Provided that the state may appropriate money for the purpose of acquiring, preserving and developing the water power and the forests of the state; but there shall not be appropriated under the authority of this section in any one year an amount to exceed two-tenths of one mill of the taxable property of the state as determined by the last preceding state assessment."

Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Wisconsin be and the same is agreed to by this legislature.

Said election shall be held and conducted, in accordance with law.

Given under my hand and official seal at the court house in the city of Janesville, this 9th day of July, A. D., 1910.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Oct. 6, 1870.—Jottings.—A most interesting game of baseball is promised for to-morrow afternoon. Those who have never witnessed a contest of this nature will find themselves amply repaid for their trouble by visiting the driving park tomorrow, and watching the game between the Centrals and Minutemen.

The prize for the trotting race at the driving park Saturday is twenty-five dollars.

A pleasant party of young and middle-aged people assembled at the residence of Mr. Wm. Booth, on Milton Avenue, last evening.

The continued exertion by many of our exchanges that the local department of the Gazette is in charge of a lady, has finally provoked us to a most emphatic denial of this villainous libel. We know of no one capable of judging more correctly than ourselves in this particular and we unhesitatingly assert that we are not a female, never was a female, and in all probability, never will be one.

The concert for the benefit of Mrs. Chapman, given last evening was not so well attended as we had hoped to see it, yet the receipts were fair, and expenses were light, nearly all that was taken for tickets may be considered as profit, which makes the undertaking a success. We hope that the public will learn to appreciate and encourage home talent, for after last night's entertainment, no one can say that our city does not possess excellent musical ability.

Janesville is a young city—its merchants are of the Young America sort, who believe in doing a large business on the large profit plan, and it pays at least so says H. A. Smith, the popular boot and shoe dealer who has tried it for the past four years. His boot and shoe store is located opposite the postoffice.

The thermometer at Webb's corner indicated 54 degrees above at eight o'clock this morning, and 72 at twelve o'clock p. m.

FULTON.

Fulton, Oct. 6.—The Ladies Aid society will hold a "corn contest" in the church hall on Friday evening, Nov. 14. Every farmer is invited to bring in his field corn, white and yellow. Two prizes are offered: A year's subscription to the "Breeders' Gazette," or its equivalent, and for the second prize, fifty cents. Light refreshments will be served. Everybody come and have a good time, bring others with you.
